On the Banks of the Tjajawa:
K. Madhavan—an autobiography
Dr P Radhika Menon
978-81-237-6323-1, Rs. 115.00

Veteran freedom fighter K Madhavan (26 August 1915) is the lone survivor who participated in the historical Satluj and Gurguvayoor Satyagrahas. A steadfast Gandhian and later a staunch Communist, who believed in a synthesis of Marxism and Gandhism, K Madhavan ventured into politics at the tender age of 12. Born in an aristocratic family, he chose to live a Spartan life and participated in very urgent socio-political-religious reform movements of the times—the nationalist struggle, the Communist Movement, agitation for the Temple Entry Proclamation Act, revolt against the janma system etc. Given the present day situation of conflict and turmoil in every sphere of life, the book will serve as a wakeup call to all patriotic forces to join hands and protect the secular democratic fabric of our country.

The Hair Timer: An Anthology of Science Fiction Stories
Dinesh Chandra Govwani
Amrit Jyoti Manuha Veli
ISBN 978-81-237-6331-6, Rs. 115.00

A collection of twenty science fiction short stories brings to the readers, for the first time in English translation, a time specimen of science fiction writing in Aasia. With an astounding variety of themes, each story in this anthology is an engaging portrayal of an imaginary scientific reality, be it the human cloning, the portable smell absorber, the modesty meter, and so on. However, all the stories are enriched by human values and emotions.

Basic Biotechniques
P. Chenna Chawla
978-81-237-6332-3, Rs. 80.00

Biotechniques are the basic tools of biotechnology in the form of analytical techniques that are integral in achieving practical results in this field. The protocols of biotechniques are well defined and minor alterations in them can yield different results, which are predictable with practice. To appreciate the precision of these protocols, an understanding of the scientific principle underlying the various biotechniques is crucial, as it is the cornerstone for creative troubleshooting of technical challenges in biotechnology. This book, a stepping stone for enabling readers to understand important principles and commonly used techniques in a biotechnology laboratory, is a must-read for all young biotechnologists and general readers.

I am a Dreamer to My Village: From India to Trinidad
Kenneth R. Lal
978-81-237-6307-1, Rs. 135.00 (PB), 978-81-237-6308-8, Rs. 380.00 (HB)

A valuable contribution to the understanding of the making of the Caribbean Diaspora community in the Caribbean Islands, I am a Dreamer to My Village is much more than an autobiography of an individual’s accomplishments—it is an autobiography of the vagaries of colonialism; a life, culture and society undergone unprecedented metamorphosis, struggle between identity and survival, between nightmare of the past and the dream of the future. But what comes out strikingly is the hope in life, faith in struggle and sense of enduring will and determination. As the author puts it so very telling: ‘Along my journey I have experienced human existence in all its forms; from abject poverty to that of an illiterate and triumphed over those vicissitudes and misfortunes with fortitude and optimism.’
As part of the National Book Week celebrations, the National Book Trust, India in association with the Puadhi Punjab Sahit, Mohali organised a one-day programme for children at Shivalik Public School, Mohali on 16 November 2011.

A steadfast Gandhian and later a staunch Communist, who believed in a synthesis of Marxism and Gandhism, K Madhavan ventured into politics at the tender age of 12. Born in an aristocratic family, he chose to live a Spartan life and participated in very urgent socio-political-religious reform movements of the times—the nationalist struggle, the Communist Movement, agitation for the Temple Entry Proclamation Act, revolt against the jammu system and so on. Given the present day situation of conflict and turmoil in every sphere of life, the book will serve as a wakeup call to all patriotic forces to join hands and protect the secular democratic fabric of our country.

The Hair Timers: An Anthology of Science Fiction Stories
Dinesh Chandra Gouwani
Amrit Jyoti Mahanta (Tr.)
ISBN 978-81-237-6331-6; Rs. 115.00

This collection of twenty science fiction short stories brings to the readers, for the first time in English translation, a time specimen of science fiction writing in Assamiya. With an astounding variety of themes, each story in this anthology is an engaging portrayal of an imaginary scientific reality, be it the human cloning, the portable smell absorber, the modesty meter, and so on. However, all the stories are enlivened by human values and emotions.

Basic Biotechniques
P Chenna Chawla
978-81-237-6332-3; Rs 80.00

Biotechniques are the basic tools of biotechnology in the form of analytical techniques that are integral in achieving practical results in this field. The protocols of biotechniques are well defined and minor alterations in them can yield different results, which are predictable with practice. To appreciate the precision of these protocols, an understanding of the scientific principle underlying the various biotechniques is crucial, as it is the cornerstone for creative troubleshooting of technical challenges in biotechnology.

This book, a stepping stone for enabling this field. The practical results in this book are well defined and very tellingly: ‘Along my journey I have experienced human existence in all its vicissitudes and misfortunes with fortitude and optimism.’

I am a Dream to My Village: From India to Trinidad
Kenneth R. Lalla
978-81-237-6307-1; Rs. 135.00 (PB)
978-81-237-6508-8; Rs. 380.00 (HB)

A valuable contribution to the understanding of the making of an Indian Diaspora community in the Caribbean Islands, I am a Dream to My Village is much more than an autobiography of an individual’s accomplishments—it is an autobiography of the vagaries of colonialism, a life, culture and society undergone unprecedented metamorphosis, struggle between identity and survival, between nightmare of the past and the dream of the future. But what comes out strikingly is the hope in life, faith in struggle and sense of enduring will and determination. As the author puts it so very telling: ‘Along my journey I have experienced human existence in all its forms; from abject poverty to that of an illustrious and triumphed over those vicissitudes and misfortunes with fortitude and optimism.’
